Below are a few categories for you to think through that hopefully will help give you a feel for some of the demands of the trip.

Physically

- the travel and the days can be long and rigorous
- Even for the young and healthy it can be an exhausting trip and the travel alone leaves most people susceptible to sickness

Mentally

- this trip requires a good deal of flexibility as even the leaders often don't know what will be requested for the team to do and when it is to be done
- It is helpful to have people that can are willing and able to jump in at the last minute to do something they might not have been expecting to do or even feel very capable to do

Spiritually

- able to serve selflessly
- endure discomfort with joy

- passionate about sharing the gospel
